

HomeConvenience.com Provides Synchronization with Outlook and Palm for it's Online Family Calendar and Home Organization Service

HomeConvenience.com announces the much anticipated support for the synchronization of their online Family Calendar and Home Organization tool with the popular Outlook and Palm platforms. This feature will allow their users to enjoy both the online accessibility of common family information; while also being able to put selected information on their individual machines.

Saratoga Springs, New York, March 16th, 2006 -- HomeConvenience.com (www.HomeConvenience.com) announced today that their latest release provides for the synchronization of their popular online family calendar service with both the Outlook® and Palm® platforms. This functionality extends to all other relevant areas of the site as well. For example, the users can also share their To Do Lists, Address Book, Shopping Lists, Goals, etc. with these applications.

“Our customers are the best source of application enhancement suggestions. While they have many great ideas, there was a consistent request to add this synchronization functionality.” said Bob Krulcik, HomeConvenience’s President and CEO. “While we also provided some other application improvements in this release, we’re glad that we were able to meet this request in particular.” Krulcik continued.

About HomeConvenience.com™:

HomeConvenience.com™ (www.HomeConvenience.com), a leading online Family Calendar and Home Organization service, provides users with a secure online Family Calendar, Address Book, To Do List, Shopping List, Recipe Management, Private Journaling, Home Inventory, e-mail alerts, and cell phone updates, etc. The service is available 24/7 and supports all common browsers for both PC and Mac; and provides for synchronization with both Outlook® and Palm®. Unlike most other online calendars, Homeconvenience.com is specifically targeted at organizing all aspects of home and family, synchronizing the lives, and calendars of multiple family members, with security and convenience. HomeConvenience.com™ - This should be your Home page.™

Outlook® is a registered trademark of Microsoft Corporation.
Palm® is a registered trademark of Palm, Inc.