

HomeConvenience.com Provides Significant Enhancements to the User Interface and Functionality with Latest Release

With their latest release, HomeConvenience.com debuts their new look; and in doing so, the company was able to provide their users with even more functionality.

Saratoga Springs, New York, June 4th, 2006 -- HomeConvenience.com (www.HomeConvenience.com) today announced the latest release of their popular online family calendar and home organization tool. The company said that while there are some nice additions on the functionality side, this release was primarily focused on enhancing the look-and-feel of the site.

In addition to the new look, the following are some of the key enhancements also included with this release:

- User-defined weather and time display
- New “Shortcuts” were added to allow for quick-and-easy entry of information
- Enhanced “State” Management for Complete User Customization of all Views
- New “Family Filter” functionality to quickly jump to the records for any given family member, or for the whole family instantly.

“I’m very excited about this release because it provides the user with increased functionality and flexibility with a nice, clean, and easy-to-navigate interface.” said Bob Krulcik, HomeConvenience’s President and CEO. “Our users have provided us with some great feedback on how we can continue to improve our application; and this new interface provides us with a solid foundation to build upon.” added Krulcik

About HomeConvenience.com™:

HomeConvenience.com™ (www.HomeConvenience.com), a leading online Family Calendar and Home Organization service, provides users with a secure online Family Calendar, Address Book, To Do List, Shopping List, Recipe Management, Private Journaling, Home Inventory, e-mail alerts, and cell phone updates, etc. The service is available 24/7 and supports all common browsers for both PC and Mac; and provides for synchronization with both Outlook® and Palm®. Unlike most other online calendars, Homeconvenience.com is specifically targeted at organizing all aspects of home and family, synchronizing the lives, and calendars of multiple family members, with security and convenience.

HomeConvenience.com™ - This should be your Home page.™

Outlook® is a registered trademark of Microsoft Corporation.

Palm® is a registered trademark of Palm, Inc.